There was a large and brilliant audience at the Theafer last night, such an one as is seldom drawn thither except on extraordinary occasions. The elite of Memphis were there, partly to enjoy one of Shakespeare's great conceptions, partly to witness Miss Anderson's interpretation of the title role, and more especially, as it was the benefit-night of the beautiful young actress, to pay her a tribute express-ive of their appreciation of her genius. The bill was Romeo and Juliet, Miss Anderson's interpretation of "Juliet" being her master effort. From the ball scene in the first act to the tomb of the Capulets at the close, she lost self and gave a "Juliet" which was unanimously conceded truly a triumph. The warm plandits and beautiful floral tributes bestowed at the close of each act testified the appreciation of the audience. Her support was excellent.
